TRAINING OR RESEARCH ACTIVITY

Description of activity
Project: "SEEK project" (Strengthening Efficiency and Competitiveness in the European Knowledge Economies). Research institute: Leibniz Centre for European Economic Research (ZEW) I worked on the construction of a new European firm-level data-set, combining information on pollution from the European Pollutant Release and Transfer Register (E-PRTR) database and economic indicators from the international firm-level database Orbis. The project aims at analyzing the impacts of a specific environmental regulation, namely information provision about pollution through the E-PRTR, on firm performance and innovation behavior in Europe. To this purpose, I utilized the statistical software R to track and analyze data. I reviewed the existing merger code, carried out necessary updates, amendments, and corrections, discussed further merge strategies.

Project: "Periurban"

Research institute: Indo-German Center for Sustainability at the Indian Institute of Technology Madras

During the exchange program in India, I had the unique opportunity to gain practical experience in field research by working on the project "Periurban". Frequently, megacities in the making, like Chennai, find it difficult to keep up with the pace of expansion on its fringes and peri-urban areas. At the same time, climate change scenarios predict an increase and higher frequency of weather-related disaster events. The provision and access to essential services, like water, energy, and land for housing, is becoming increasingly fragmented. This population's resilience depends on a number of interlocked factors, which reduce or enhance the vulnerability. Hence, the research focuses on the effects of the rapid urban development on the socio-economic conditions of people living in the outskirts of the city.
