Active since 2006, the Ethics Committee of the University of Milan expresses an opinion on studies submitted by researchers working at the University for the purposes of:

- protecting the rights, dignity, integrity and well-being of the human beings involved
- ensuring environmental stewardship, protection and conservation
- promoting and ensuring compliance with Research Integrity.

His opinion is normally required to submit research projects to national, EU or international institutions for funding applications and for publication in most scientific journals. The Ethics Committee does not have competence on clinical trials of drugs pursuant to article 3 of the relevant regulation, stating that "the functions reserved by law to the ethics committees of other institutions, namely hospitals, are outside the province of the University Ethics Committee".

AgID's international relations aim to support the Government in defining and applying digital regulations and policies, ensuring consistency between the Italian and European digital agenda and finding new direct and indirect funding. The Agency participates in many consultation groups set up by EU Institutions, in particular by the European Commission, which contribute to the definition and management of programmes and other European initiatives. AgID actively participates in the coordination activities carried out by the European Policies Department, providing technical-regulatory contributions in the areas of its expertise for the definition of new directives and regulations. AgID is involved both in directly and indirectly managed EU funds and programmes.

The Italian Anticorruption Authority (from now on: ANAC) was created with the aim of implementing article 6 of the United Nations Convention against Corruption (UNCAC). ANAC is an independent authority. ANAC's board is comprised of five members appointed with a non-renewable mandate of six years. The proposed nominations are approved by the Council of Ministers and the candidates are appointed by the President of the Republic. ANAC has a staff of 350 employees.

Law 190 of 2012 gave ANAC the responsibility:

- To draw up a preventive strategy against corruption;
 - To supervise the anticorruption strategy of each public entity (through the adoption of Three Year Plans for integrity and transparency);
 - To guarantee transparency in public administrations;
 - To guarantee the integrity of civil servants, and to disseminate a culture of integrity and legality.

The Italian Anticorruption Authority pursues its goals through regulatory and supervisory activities, has an advisory function and some inspection and sanctioning powers. These tasks are accompanied by an important monitoring activity through the collection of data on public tenders. For this purpose ANAC has set up a National Database on Public Contracts. The BDNCP is a database that collects, integrates and reconciles data concerning public contracts transmitted by contracting authorities. The system is open to interoperability, under application cooperation, both with internal systems of the Authority, and with similar systems of other administrations.

GRUPPO DI QUESITI N. 5

- Principali differenze tra accesso documentale, accesso civico e accesso civico generalizzato.
- La responsabilità precontrattuale.
