ART. 6 - RESEARCH ACTIVITIES

The Fellowship implies carrying out the activities briefly mentioned below at Dipartimento di Studi Letterari, Filologici e Linguistici dell'Università degli Studi di Milano and under the supervision of Prof. GUGLIELMETTI ROSSANA within the research programme "Martyrial hagiography of the Early Middle Ages between Greek and African models and autochthonous production", of the following research program and its specific aims:

The most recent and innovative studies on martyrial literature in Latin have focused not only on individual texts, but also on the corpora to which they refer: on the one hand, the great legendary and passionary hagiographies "per circulum anni" or with thematic organisation, which constitute the material vehicle for these texts; on the other hand, the corpus of hagiographies relating to a specific territory, which have close intertextual links between them. With regard to the first field, mention may be made of the pioneering research on the Turin Passionary, National Library D.V.3, coordinated by Monique Goulet; with regard to the second field, the reference model is the corpus of Aquileian hagiographies published under the coordination of Emanuela Colombi. All the studies conducted along these innovative lines have highlighted the debt of Latin martyrial literature to previous Greek or African models, compensated by a strong ability to rewrite in Latin in a different context, in order to adapt them to different needs of mentality and usage.

The proposed line of research fits into the framework outlined so far, which is one of the most interesting and innovative points in the current studies on Medieval Latin Literature. In addition, the topic follows a tradition of studies already alive in the past at the University of Milan, and can therefore benefit from a complete bibliographic equipment, including a series of microfilm or digital reproductions of manuscripts owned by various European libraries. The task of the research fellow will be an in-depth research on a set of martyrial texts, selected from a structured collection (in the first instance one can think of the vast Passionary of San Pietro, mss. Vatican City, BAV, Arch. S. Petr. A2, A4, A5, or one of the Passionaries preserved in the Biblioteca Ambrosiana, which are of considerable interest in reference to local hagiography; but the identification of the collection to be examined will be the first stage of the research). The choice will privilege hagiographies that present precise connections with Greek and/or African models, so that they can be examined from the point of view of interculturality, even linguistic. The outcome of the research will be the electronic critical edition of the studied texts, in connection with the Digital Humanities project initiated by the Department, of which it could be a scientific realisation.

The research activities are reported here:

1. Identification, among the possible hagiographic collections relevant to the project, of the corpus of texts to be investigated and edited;
2. Preparation of the critical edition and historical-literary overview of the selected texts;
3. Production of the electronic edition of the texts studied;
4. Participation in at least 3 international workshops or conferences for the dissemination of research results
